The PRIMROSE GIRL,

a celebrated Song Sung by

Mrs. Bland

in the ENTERTAINMENT of the SULTAN

At the THEATRE ROYAL, Hay Market,

Composed by John Moulds,

(Entd. at Stationers Hall. Price 6D.)

Printed by Henry Holland, Organ Builder, Piano Forte Maker, St. James's Street, Piccadilly.

2

Friends and Parents I've none, I am look'd on with Scorn
Ah! better for me that I ne'er had been born
Tho Poor I am honest and oft heave the Sigh
While crying Primroses, who'l buy Primroses
Who'l buy Primroses who'l buy, who'l buy.

3

If Pity to Virtue were ever allied
The tear of Compassion, ne'er yet was denied
Then pity Poor Kate who plaintively Cries
Come who'l buy Primroses, who'l buy Primroses
Who'l buy Primroses who'l buy, who'l buy.